

Good morning, everyone. I am avishek paul representor of group -2. In today's presentation we will be focusing on the theme oppression from Animal Farm. Throughout the speech we will know what is oppression and why we are giving importance to it. Simply put, Oppression is the exercise of authority or power in a unjust or cruel manner. In today's world, oppression is big issue as most of the people can't raise their voice against it. Therefore, no matter which sector we look in, we will always find two kind of people. The oppressor and the oppressed. This happens because humans like the idea of practicing power. This practice Of power is often done to hold oneself on top of other. While one with power or authority is getting comfort from this power, the person lacking that power is suffering from this practice. In addition, We ourselves are oppressing or being oppressed without even realizing because we don't understand the concept fully. As long as, the wrong sense of power exist in our society this will keep happening. We can also find oppression in the animal farm novella thorough the acts of the pigs. The pigs oppressed the animals with lower intellectuality by making them work relentlessly while the pigs lived in comfort. In spite of working relentlessly, the lower animal's rations were reduced by the pigs. Oppression of this kind can be seen in the garment sector of Bangladesh as well. In our news report slide, we can notice that the garments worker are paid minimum wage though they work ruthlessly. A research report presented by the garment solidarity stated that 61% workers think that their expenses are more than their income. But they can't do anything about that because people don't consider them equally important. Even their raised voices are silenced by the higher ups. It is quite funny to hear that they are being oppressed for demanding their rights. It is completely unethical and unfair. The garment industry makes crucial contribution to rebuilding the country and its economy. This contribution is the fruit of the blood and sweat of our garment workers. Hence, it is our duty to make sure that these workers get what they deserve. In order to do so, we have taken on an action plan to improve the Lifestyle of an average garment worker. My team members will present the cause and effects of this oppression case and our action to improve the situation furthermore we will discuss the impact of our action plan. We, the future generation have to work from now. Because the fate of the world is depending on our actions. Changing people's wrong sense of power is one of the important task to do. This change will make people consider everyone equal. When everyone will consider everyone equal, the thought of oppression will be flushed out from peoples minds. But there is one problem, we can't change everything at once. Hence, we have to change bit by bit. Our today's action plan to reduce oppression in garments industry in Bangladesh is a drop of water for changing the world which will eventually turn into a sea with everyones effort

To sum up, By taking an action to remove oppression from the garment industry, we will be taking a little step toward a better nation moreover a better world. Thank you everyone now the next presenter ruhin rahman raida from our group will be covering the cause and effects of oppression in the garments industry of Bangladesh.
